

Nomios expands cybersecurity offering with the acquisition of Intragen, a European leader in Identity and Access Management

London, October 9, 2025 - Nomios, a leading European expert in cybersecurity and secure network services, today announces the acquisition of Intragen, a next-generation Identity and Access Management (“IAM”) specialist. The acquisition, supported by Keensight Capital (“Keensight”), one of the leading private equity managers dedicated to pan-European Growth Buyout<sup>[1]</sup> investments, marks a major milestone in Nomios’ growth strategy and further strengthens its position as the global trusted partner for cybersecurity across Europe.

Founded in 2006 and headquartered in the UK, Intragen provides identity and governance solutions to strengthen enterprise cybersecurity. It covers professional and managed services across all IAM segments, with a presence in the UK, Nordics, Benelux, and DACH regions. Today, Intragen’s 250 experts secure millions of identities across Europe.

The acquisition adds IAM capabilities to Nomios’s existing product offering, strengthening its end-to-end positioning. Intragen’s clients will benefit from the full suite of Nomios cybersecurity solutions. The move also reinforces the organization’s position in the UK&I, Benelux and DACH regions, while establishing a foothold in the Nordics and Greece.

With the acquisition of Intragen, Nomios is reaching a new and significant milestone in its evolution to become the trusted advisor in cybersecurity across Europe. This follows its acquisition of Dionach, a UK-based cybersecurity company offering specialized services focused on cyber resilience, in October 2024. The group now brings together more than 1,200 professionals across seven European markets.

Sebastien Kher, CEO and Founder of Nomios, said: “What I have particularly valued throughout this process is how much importance Alex and the Intragen team place on their people and their clients, a value that resonates deeply with our own DNA at Nomios. By joining forces, we are creating new synergies to support our clients as they face increasingly complex identity and security challenges. Together, we are opening a new chapter, rich in opportunities for our clients, partners, and teams.”

Alex Fagioli, CEO of Intragen, added: “Joining Nomios represents a tremendous opportunity for Intragen, our employees, and our clients. We share the same commitment to expertise and the same drive to support European organizations in their secure digital transformation. This partnership will allow us to accelerate our development, broaden our offering, and continue to innovate for our clients.”

Jean-Christophe Cini, Partner at Keensight Capital, concluded: “We are proud to be supporting Nomios with its continued development. The acquisition of Intragen will propel the business forward, adding new capabilities, geographies and clients, further reinforcing its European leadership.”
